597 Youths in County To Get Questionnaires; 134 Have Enlisted to Date.

An estimated 597 Marion city and county 18 and 19-year-old registrants, within the week will receive initial questionnaires to determine their availability for service in the armed forces.

Ohio draft boards today were instructed to send the questionnaires, the state selective service headquarters reported to The Associated Press. It is estimated that 140,000 Ohio youths in the age bracket are registered.

A survey of the Marion county boards at noon revealed that 134 of the 18-19 year old group have enlisted for service since the general registration of teen-age youths last June 24 and June 30.

Nine hundred and seventy-nine Marion county youths registered last June. Since then 247 have become 20 years of age and have been sent their initial questionnaires.

The number of 18-19 year olds now registered with the boards, with the number of enlistees in parenthesis follow:

Board 1 (Wards 1, 2, and 3) 241 (92).

Board 2 (Wards 4, 5, and 6) 145 (19).

Board 3 (Rural) 210 (23).

PRESIDENT'S WIFE RETURNS TO U. S.

Returns from War Trip; Plans Press Conference.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 — Mrs Franklin D. Roosevelt returned to Washington today from a wartime trip to England.

The President's wife, who left New York October 21, arrived at a nearby airport by plane this morning and was met by the President.

In England she was the guest of King George and Queen Elizabeth and carried out an arduous inspection of military and civilian activities.

(The White House said she would hold a press conference at 11:00 a. m., Marion time, tomorrow.)

When Mrs. Roosevelt left England and the route she followed returning was not disclosed.

PROCLAIMS BOND WEEK

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 17—Gov. Bricker today proclaimed Dec. 1-7 as "Buy Bonds Week" to commemorate Pearl Harbor. The governor urged all Ohioans to allot at least 10 per cent of their wages for bond purchases that week and suggested that the drive be concluded with celebrations at 12:30 p. m. Dec. 7.

Registration for Gasoline Rationing Starts Tomorrow

Motorists To Sign Up at Schools in Next Three Days; Volunteer Workers To Meet Tonight.

Marion county's thousands of owners of passenger cars and motorcycles on Wednesday, along with others in unattached areas throughout the country, will begin registration for the basic allotment of gasoline in the nationwide rationing program starting Dec. 1.

Meanwhile, Robert F. Williams, chairman of the gasoline rationing section of the county rationing board, announced that the supplemental registration for persons who seek more than the basic four gallons a week will be conducted in The Star auditorium on North State street, starting next Monday.

The hundreds of volunteers who will conduct the supplemental registration will receive instruction in a mass meeting tonight at 7:30 in the Central Junior High school auditorium. Paul L. Jarvis, associate rationing official from Columbus, will conduct the school of instruction.

The supplemental registration will be conducted from 12 noon through 9 p. m., next Monday through Saturday except on Thanksgiving day, Thursday.

Volunteer Workers

Among groups who have volunteered to work during the supplemental registration are the membership of the Marion Association of Insurance Agents and employes of the Marion County bank and the Fahey Banking Co. The Marion Business college has pledged to furnish 11 girls and typewriters to assist in the work. Boy and Girl Scouts will act as pages.

Marion county rationing officials today called attention of farmers to the fact that when they go to their nearest centralized school this week for basic "A" books they should request an application for non-highway equipment if they have such equipment, such as tractors. The application, Form 537 must be executed in duplicate if the farmer has been purchasing gasoline tax free for such equipment.

If, in addition to a private passenger automobile the farmer owns a truck for which he has received a certificate of war emergency from the ODT, he will fill out application form 536 and present it with the certificate during the supplemental registration period.

It will be necessary that the farmer be certain of the amount of gasoline he needs, officials said.

Truck Deadline Extended

Frank G. Montgomery, chairman of the Marion county farm transportation committee, today called attention of local truck operators, including farmers, to extension of the dealine for the operation of trucks without ODT certificates of war necessity.

The ODT has announced that trucks may be operated without the certificates up to Dec. 1, and that any one who has applied for a certificate and has not received it by Dec. 1 will be eligible to apply for issuance of temporary gas rations.

Mr. Montgomery advised farmers who own trucks and who have not yet applied for a certificate to do so immediately. Assistance in filling out applications will be given at the committee's offices at 220 East Church street.

In order to keep the certificate the operator will be required to keep a weekly record of all operations on a form provided on the back of each certificate.

Commercial Vehicles

The office of war information has announced that the date for the start of rationing, Dec. 1, applies to all commercial as well as passenger vehicles. In the case of rations for commercial vehicles, war price and rationing boards will reduce by 30 per cent the gallonage allowed by the ODT for the 40-day period from Nov. 22 to Dec. 31, due to the shortening of the ration time. Transport rations to trucks may be granted by the local board to holders of ODT certificates of war necessity as soon as the rationed materials are available.

The effect of the week's delay on "A" book holders in Ohio and other states in the previously unrationed area will be to give them a gasoline bonus of a little more than a coupon's worth. No ration coupons will be removed from the "A" books to allow for the change in dates.

The delay in starting the basic registration, originally set for last Thursday, Friday and Saturday, was caused largely by the wartime congestion of the country's transportation system, according to the OWI. The congestion made it impossible to maintain delivery schedules in all parts of the country on the more than a third of a billion pieces of printed matter necessary to put the program into effect.

Main Points Of Plan for Basic Gas Rationing

Days of basic registration—Wednesday, Thursday, Friday.

Places — Thomas A. Edison, Vernon Heights and Central Junior High schools for residents of Marion; centralized schools for residents of county (excepting Reber, Campbell and Lawrence school district residents, who may go to either nearest centralized school or junior high school).

Hours—Junior high schools, 9:30 a. m. through 9 p. m., centralized schools, 3 p. m. through 9 p. m.

Registrants — All owners of passenger cars and motorcycles. Must present signed application, either in person or by some one delegated by the owner. With basic "A" card registrant may ask for a supplemental ration blank, which must be filled out and ready for presentation during the supplemental registration. The supplemental registration will be conducted next week in The Star auditorium.

Required credentials—Vehicle registration card and serial numbers of all tires. If serial numbers are not legible, a complete description of the tire or tires.

Applicants are urged to go to the school in the district in which they live.

MAC ARTHUR IN NEW GUINEA TO LEAD ASSAULT

General Takes Command as U. S. and Allied Troops Near Japanese Base.

By The Associated Press

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, AUSTRALIA, Nov. 17 — Led by General MacArthur, jungle-skilled Australian and American troops forced within heavy gun [illegible] of Buna today, ready to fight the Japanese for the Papuan base or to take it by default.

The commander-in-chief of the southwest Pacific went into the field on 48 to direct the campaign and with him was General Sir Thomas Blamey, his commander of allied land forces, and Lieut. Gen. George C. Kenney, his commander of allied air force.

Today's headquarters communique said that Australian patrols had reached the vicinity of Awala, only 30 miles by trail from Buna, with Australian and American forces closing in quickly from the west and south against a steadily retreating enemy.

The Japanese faced either a last-ditch stand or an attempt to flee by sea. Buna is their only coastal foothold in Papua but up the New Guinea coast they have strongholds at Lae and Salamaua, some 150 miles away.

American B-25 bombers and A-20 attack planes teamed with Australian Beaufighters to strafe and bomb the retreating enemy around Buna and along the Kumusi river. Japanese were fleeing toward the coast in canoes.

At Awala the advancing allies were closer to Buna than the Japanese were to Port Moresby last September when their thrust across the towering Owen Stanley Mountain range reached its furthest mark at Ioribaiwa, only 32 miles from the allied base on the south coast.

While the Australians outdid the enemy at his own stealthy, infiltrating type of jungle warfare back along his invasion trail, American soldiers fought and pushed and hacked their way through coastal jungles from the southeast to form a junction with the Australians last week-end.

General MacArthur's presence testified to the importance attached to the job of clearing the enemy out of Papua.

TANK ATTACK HERO

This picture of Corp. Bernard J. Reed of Brooklyn, N. Y., was taken during a furlough in New York. He is a member of the crew of the American-built tank that went on a rampage in the center of Buna, Algiers communique said, destroyed three 75-mm. guns and fifty motor vehicles. The tank emerged from each encounter with the French guns "ringing from its front."

COUNTY REALTY TAX RATES SET

Real estate tax rates for 1942 in Marion county's 48 taxing districts were announced today by the county budget commission, showing increased rates in nine districts, decreases in 10 and 28 in which the rates are the same as a year ago.

In Marion city the rate remains at 16.90 mills or $16.90 for each $1,000 valuation on real estate. Thus if you own a house and lot in Marion appraised at $3,000 for taxing purposes, your taxes for the year will be $50.70. Half of that amount will be due in the collection period scheduled to start next December, the other half in a collection to start in June of 1943.

The rates announced today were compiled by the county budget commission on the basis of budgets submitted to it by each of the governmental and school subdivisions of the county. These budgets showed what each governmental unit or school district thought it would require for debt and operating purposes in 1943. By taking all of these into consideration and trimming the budget requests so they fit within the taxing limitations set up by law, the commission arrived at the rates announced today.

Approved by State

The rates were made official when the commission submitted them to William S. Evatt, state tax commissioner, yesterday and obtained his approval of the entire schedule.

The county budget commission is made up of County Auditor Harry V. Mounts, County Treasurer Marion Hinklin and Prosecuting Attorney James E. Reed.

Although Marion city taxpayers will pay on the same rate as those fixed a year ago, the city and the city schools will get more operating revenue from real estate sources in 1943 than in 1942, provided the tax collections next year are as good as those this year. The city's total millage of 16.90 includes the following items with comparable figures for last year shown in parentheses: rate for county government 2.80 (2.80), rate for city schools 8.02 (7.88), rate for Marion city government 6.04 (6.46 and rate for Marion township .04 of a mill (.06). While these two sets of figures both total 16.90, it will be noted that the city schools will receive .42 of a mill more this year than last and that the city government will get .42 of a mill less.

But while the city's total revenue next year from real estate taxes will be less than in 1942, it will have more for operating purposes than in 1942. This is be-

ENEMY LOSSES IN MEN MAY REACH TO 40 THOUSAND

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 — Secretary of Navy Knox said today that the United States clearly had won round two of the battle for the Solomons Islands, but that it "must not be forgotten" that there may be a round three.

The secretary called last week's American naval victory—which cost the Japanese 11 warships and 12 other vessels sunk and seven ships damaged—"a major action, but not a decisive one."

Japanese personnel losses may have run from 20,000 to 40,000.

"We have at the moment," Knox said in response to a press conference question, "naval supremacy around Guadalcanal."

He declined to claim more advantage than that strategically, but commenting on the overall result of the greatest naval engagement since the battle of Jutland in the World war, said that it leaves American forces "in complete and undisputed possession of the Guadalcanal Target area and of the island of Guadalcanal and the airfield there and has caused the enemy a severe loss both in ship and personnel."

The effect of these losses Knox said obviously will be hurtful to the Japanese navy, but he declined to say that the Jap fleet had been crippled.

"No doubt," he declared, "the processes of attrition operate more against them than against us. Remember that we build faster with our greater resources than they do. But remember also that the Japanese operate pretty much in home waters and adjacent areas. Our Navy is spread all over the seven seas. While the Japanese fleet has suffered to date it is still operating in comparatively narrow areas."

The secretary was asked whether, if the Japanese come back to the southeastern Solomons with a strong naval force, our forces would again defeat them. He replied that "We will defeat them. I don't know when or in what action."

Enemy Had Superiority

Knox said that the enemy had had numerical superiority in the theater of action during the period of the battle ending last week-end, and said the American triumph had been won in spite of that.

"I can not speak in too high praise of the qualities displayed by the Navy in this action," the secretary asserted.

"Nimitz, Halsey, Callaghan and others not only met and drove from the field a numerically superior force but also they employed the most daring type of action to accomplish that result," he said in naming the admirals largely concerned.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz is

MOVE TO POSTPONE RATIONING STARTS

Some Congressmen Want Gas Reduction Delayed.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 — A congressional drive to postpone the nationwide rationing of gasoline, now scheduled to start on Dec. 1, was reported by its backers today to have gained strength in influential quarters.

Without disclosing the names of more than a score of congressmen he said had assured him of support, Representative Johnson (D-Okla) said there was "a splendid chance" for an early hearing on a resolution he introduced yesterday to set up a three-man board to study the entire petroleum situation.

Johnson's resolution automatically would forestall nationwide rationing. It was referred to the banking and currency committee.

Japs Aimed Sea Attack At Crushing U. S. Power

By WALTER B. CLAUSEN

PEARL HARBOR, T. H., Nov. 17—Japan's naval hordes swept down on the Solomon islands to disaster in their all-out effort to smash American power in the South Pacific.

When full details of those three short but fiery engagements northwest of Guadalcanal on Nov. 13-15 become known, they will tell a story of not only the greatest naval battles ever staged at night, but also of the fiercest slugging combats in all naval history.

It was a most costly demonstration to Japan that not only have American forces complete control of the land, sea and sky there, but also they have the force to carry on an offensive.

"I think they brought everything they had," said Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet, significantly.

Major Victory for U. S.

"As a result, all the enemy forces were either destroyed or driven back, and a major victory was obtained by our gallant forces."

The admiral said he was certain the victory would result in the immediate strengthening of the hold we now have on Guadalcanal and the eventual expulsion of the enemy from that strategic island.

The Japs on Guadalcanal, he said, are suffering from the lack of two things: beans and bullets.

"They have hands of men in the upper reaches of the island with radio equipment, which gives them the advantage of having reports on everything we do, all our plans and ship movements and almost complete data on our operations and forces," he told newsmen.

"Our problem is to eliminate these observation patrols so we can do something, without being seen. We know the enemy is greatly disappointed he didn't get supplies and reinforcements, and he is especially lacking in beans and bullets.

"We know we have plenty of men there, and that they have enough to do the job we set out to do—expel the Japs—and that our men have the proper punch to do it."

For this all-out offensive, the Japs assembled at Rabaul all of the forces [illegible] power-houses in [illegible] Pacific, the admiral [illegible] stating that

Questions and Answers On Gasoline Rationing

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 17 — If your sister doesn't need all the gasoline coupons allotted her under the forthcoming mileage rationing, you can use the extras—provided you also use her car.

If you have a gasoline storage tank on your property, you can draw from it after Dec. 1—provided you destroy one coupon every time you take out four gallons.

But you won't get any kind of coupon book until you dispose of all tires over and above the five you're permitted to have.

The office of price administration made these things clear yesterday through the following question and answers, compiled by the Cleveland regional office of war information for the enlightenment of motorists still in the dark about some phases of the mileage rationing program. The list is made up of questions most commonly submitted to the OPA.

Questions-Answers

Q.—Why has the term "gasoline rationing" been changed in official government statements to "mileage rationing"?

A.—Because the primary purpose of this phase of the rationing program is to conserve tires. That can best be accomplished by curtailing driving, which causes wear on tires. By reducing the amount of available gasoline, the government will bring about a proportionate reduction in mileage.

Q.—If I own a sixth tire that is absolutely necessary, I will be required to surrender it?

A.—Yes, but I surrender all tires in excess of five to get automobile in order to obtain a basic coupon book. Any tire, regardless of condition make no difference. Inflated wheels of passenger car can't claim no more than one tire per vehicle.

Q.—What do I do to turn in a tire to the government?

A.—Notify the nearest railway express-agency and it will be collected without charge to you. If convenient, take it to the nearest railway express agency.

Q.—My sister drives her automobile very little. She will not need four gallons of gasoline a week. May I use her extra coupons?

A.—You may, if you drive that car for which the book was issued.

Q.—I have a large gasoline storage tank at my country place. May I continue to use that gasoline after Dec. 1?

A.—You may, provided you destroy coupons in your ration book equal to the four gallons a week you are allowed under rationing. In other words, you are required to destroy one coupon.

Fate of Speeders

Q.—What is going to happen to speeders after rationing becomes effective?

A.—Every court of record will report to the local board of a person convicted of driving in excess of 35 miles an hour. Upon receipt of such certification of conviction the board may revoke the ration coupon book of the convicted motorist.

Q.—Are there other penalties for violations of the regulations?

A.—Indeed. If you falsify a statement or conspire with another to defeat the purpose of the regulations, you are subject to a maximum fine of $10,000 or imprisonment for 10 years, or both.

Q.—Is it absolutely essential that an applicant for supplemental gasoline must show that he is carrying four or more persons, including himself, to work?

A.—It is a primary requirement, but not an absolute essential. The applicant may still be able to obtain supplemental fuel by convincing his local board that he can not carry four or more persons because of the limited capacity of his vehicle, or that he is required to travel at unusual or irregular hours, or of having to travel over routes not feasible for other persons who might be carried, or by offering such other reasons as the local board might find sufficient.

Q.—Must I personally apply for my basic book?

A.—The registered owner must personally sign the application unless physically unable to do so, but any one may take it to the place of registration for you.

Q.—If I am out of town on the days of registration, what do I do?

A.—Apply wherever you happen to be. However, it would be simpler to fill out and sign your application before you leave home and designate some one to submit it for you.

Question on Inspection

Q.—Do I have to go to an authorized tire inspector before I can obtain my basic book?

A.—No, the inspection may be made anytime between Dec. 1, 1942, and Jan. 31, 1943.

Q.—Do I have to list the serial numbers of excess tires that I have already turned over to the government through the express company?

A.—No, you are required to furnish the serial numbers of tires actually in your possession at the time you fill out your application. If you still have excess tires when you register, write their numbers on your form. If you have already surrendered them, forget them.

Q.—Well, if I list six or seven tires, what happens to me?

A.—Bad news. You don't get a basic book, and you can't buy gasoline until you have disposed of the extras over and above five tires.

Q.—If I can't find any serial numbers on my tires, what do I do?

A.—They're usually found on the sidewall near the rim, and are indented. If you can't find them, ask your filling station operator or garage attendant to help you.

Q.—What happens if my ration book is lost or stolen or destroyed?

A.—You make written application (oath to) your local board for replacement.

Q.—What if I find a coupon book. May I use it?

A.—The maximum penalty for doing that is 10 years and $10,000. If you find a lost book or coupons you shall, within five days, return it to any local board.

MURDER on the Campus

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE

The Delicate Threat

Todd [illegible] the door of the fraternity house and [illegible] Dr. the house [illegible] a dark brown suit interested him before he reached it.

"You're Malone, of course. I [illegible] could recognize you so I waited down here in the lobby. I'm Ben Talbott," he said, extending his hand.

Todd noticed the hand was soft, the nails highly polished. It was a hand that hadn't done much hard work.

Talbott took Todd by the arm and guided him into the dining room. "An acquaintance of mine [illegible] you in a couple of minutes," Talbott said. "We'll [illegible] a table, if you please."

The headwaiter led them to a table in the extreme corner of the room.

"Ryan my friend and I will feel honored to have you lunch with us," Talbott said.

"Don't [illegible] feel foolish," Todd said simply. "I'm just another football player. If that's what you mean." He studied Talbott closely, saw nothing but a ghost of a smile on an inscrutable face.

Talbott glanced up. "Here comes Crane now," he said. "Hello, Joe, you're just in time. Joe, meet Mr. Malone—Mr. Crane."

Todd rose briefly and shook hands with the other man. Crane was slender and had black hair and sleepy looking eyes. Todd had a feeling he had either seen the man or his picture some place.

"Well, gentlemen, in what way can I be of service?" Todd asked.

Talbott waved a slender hand. "Time enough for that after we have lunch."

So they ate lunch first and made small talk about politics, the weather and a free opinion of football now and then. Todd was impatient.

The Proposition

Talbott took out a cigar when they were through eating and lit it deliberately.

"Okay, Malone. Here it is, but I want to get something across first. You may not like the proposition we have to offer. In fact—" he blew a cloud of smoke and watched it closely—"in fact you may be a bit offended. But I'd like you to remember that I am merely broaching a business proposition. Please treat it as such."

Crane folded his hands on the table and smiled.

"Mr. Crane and I," Talbott went on, "are betting commissioners. We are the financial backers of one of the large football spot sheet pools which you see around the country."

Todd interrupted him. "I don't think there is any business transaction you and I can get together on, Mr. Talbott," Todd said quickly. "So, if you'll excuse me—"

Talbott waved him back to his seat. "Take it easy and [illegible] through, out of politeness. [illegible] nothing else, I wish [illegible] to me [illegible] Mr. Crane and I will pay you $2,000 in return for your [illegible] services. And suppose I [illegible] you at the very start that I happen to know Duke Malone is looking around for a few [illegible] of money right now."

Todd felt himself jump a little.

"State and Michigan are [illegible] a toss-up this Saturday," Talbott continued. "We're offering that as one of the five games on a special five-game parlay, and it's the only one we're letting as 'even.' That's where you come in."

"I don't come in anywhere but I still don't know what you mean."

"You see, it's this: We clean up anyway on a five-game parlay, but if the State-Michigan game happens by some small chance to wind up a tie we make a terrific killing. The game [illegible] for the better and there won't be many people picking a 'tie' way.

"Now we know there's maybe one chance in 10 of the game actually winding up a dead heat but you can bet the odds much closer than that. With you calling plays—and kicking points after touchdowns—" Talbott added significantly, "it isn't a remote possibility at all, at all.

"We lose nothing in trying it and reap a harvest if the thing clicks. If you can swing it you're [illegible] dollar bill from his wallet and

That's For The Lunch

Something in Todd's eyes brought Talbott to a halt. "I don't know why you think I wanted me to treat you strictly as a business proposition," Todd said grimly. "You were afraid I'd find out otherwise, I at least owe you enough to be honest enough for you."

Talbott looked about him quickly. There was no one within five tables of them. "Sure, maybe you have something on me. But remember this—there's $2,000 you can pick up that is the easiest money you ever made in your life and ever will make. It's foolproof."

"And may don't you forget that loyalty business!" Todd stopped paying off on loyalty an ago. I don't like to remind you but you've been [illegible] around in this town the last [illegible] weeks."

Talbott's eyes narrowed as he leaned closer to Todd. "And it's two thousand bucks that Duke Malone might need desperately. You never can tell what the D so might do if he doesn't get that dough. Why, he might even start gambling again. Talbott said with a small smirk.

Todd stood up. His face was dark, his mouth set. He threw a [illegible]

WARTIME CONSTIPATION WAS MY TROUBLE!
"And what a difference that made! You see, I knew this wartime [illegible] had upset my usual habits of working, sleeping and eating. But I overlooked the fact that in this rush, my meals were likely to be improperly [illegible] and I just wasn't getting the [illegible] I needed.
"And this very lack is one of the most frequent causes of wartime constipation. Medicinal laxatives [illegible] only temporary relief, because they don't correct the cause.

ABOUT GAS FOR ANOTHER WAR PLANT

Miraculous growth of war industry has placed tremendous demands on gas — the fuel most desired for many processes in the manufacture of war materials. When the building of a new plant or the expansion of an existing plant is planned in this territory, the War Production Board checks on the gas facilities available. Gas Company industrial engineers have been working long and diligently with WPB officials to make sure that gas will be on the job to meet all demands. Gas now enters the manufacturing process of practically every piece of war equipment made in this territory. From the same gas lines comes the fuel that efficiently and economically serves your home. That is why we ask you to use gas carefully in these critical times. Your cooperation helps speed the production that will speed Victory.

PRESIDENT SENDS MESSAGE TO LEAGUE

Loan Group Told Nation of Home Owners Unbeatable.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 17—President Roosevelt told the special war conference of the United States Savings and Loan league yesterday that "a nation of home owners, of people who own a real share in their own land, is unconquerable."

In a message read to the opening session of the conference on housing and savings, the President stated "you have the unique satisfaction of knowing that your institutions' business of financing homes over a period of one hundred years has contributed inestimably to your country's strength."

"Since the nation's danger first became apparent," the President's message continued, "savings and loan associations and other thrift institutions have used their resources and experience in the service of their country. I refer not only to your contributions in providing thousands upon thousands of homes, but to the manner in which you have supported the vital measures to protect our national economy."

Two Marion Erie Workers Given Recognition for Outstanding Job

Two Erie railroad men from Marion, Richard H. Hurley of 594 Chestnut street, an engineer, and Arthur M. Young of 551 Pearl street, a fireman, were given recognition in this month's edition of the Erie magazine for an outstanding act of railroading.

R. H. Hurley

Under the department, "Merit Citations," conducted to especially honor men for unusual railroading acts, the magazine carried the accompanying pictures of the two men, and an account of their feat, written by V. J. McMullen of Marion, superintendent of the Kent division with headquarters in Marion.

A. M. Young

Mr. McMullen's recommendatory account follows:

"Engineer Hurley and Fireman Young composed the crew operating the engine on train No. 16, an eastbound passenger train operating on a fast schedule enroute to New York from Chicago. Their job was to handle the train over the division (Kent) from the terminal at Marion to the terminal at Kent.

They departed the Terminal at Marion on time and were making the usual schedule until they arrived at Polk, about 60 miles from their originating terminal. Here they discovered that a bearing on a truck of the engine tank had become overheated, causing a 'hot box.' The engine could not proceed until necessary repairs had been made. The nearest engine for replacement was 21 miles away and the nearest repair point about 40 miles distant.

"Alive to the importance of getting through on schedule, these men saw a tool box nearby which belonged to the car inspector. Seizing a coal pick from the engine, they forced the lock and opened the box in which they found tools and materials with which to make repairs. With improvised cribbing under the jacks, they jacked the tank up, removed the damaged journal bearing, secured some grease and applied new journal bearing.

"The journal box packing had burned out so they removed packing from a car standing on an adjacent track, packed the journal box, completed temporary repairs and proceeded to the point 21 miles away, where a relief engine was available.

"Before leaving the point where delay for repairs occurred, they notified the dispatcher what had transpired and that they had removed journal box packing from a car on the siding and that it was important the car inspector be dispatched to that point to repack the journal box on the car to prevent a car failure. In the event the car was picked up by another train.

"They proceeded and made their scheduled running time for 42 miles, the delay being only four minutes in the next 10 miles on account of running slow due to a defective journal."

By The Associated Press

BLUFFTON, O., Nov. 17—Two small boys burned to death when fire destroyed a barn of George Preto. They were Preto's son George, 3, and Eugene Bracy, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Bracy. The parents said they believed the boys were playing with matches.

How U. S. Will Convert Marion Homes To House War Workers

Following is one of a series of questions and answers on the home conversion program which the National Housing Agency will inaugurate in Marion within two weeks to relieve the critical need of homes for workers at the Steele Ordnance Plant and the Marion Engineer Depot and their families. Mr. [illegible] county rationing board, will serve the agencies in giving out information and answering questions concerning the program. The questions and answers were released by the National Housing Agency.

Q—May the owner sell his property while it is leased to the government?

A—Yes. The purchaser, however, takes it subject to the terms of the lease.

Q—If taxes, insurance and water rates are increased during the life of the lease, will these increases be charged to the owner?

A—Increases in charges occurring after the signing of the lease will not be charged back to the owner.

Q—If certain services, such as heating furnace, removing garbage and the like, are performed by the owner, will he receive direct compensation for this work?

A—Yes—on the same basis that payment would be made for these services if performed by a non-owner.

Q—What consideration will be given to the war worker's income in relation to the number of rooms required by his family, in setting rents to be charged by the government after conversion?

A—Practices already established under the Lanham Act for rental of publicly operated war housing will apply.

Q—Will an appraisal of the property be necessary?

A—Not generally not. Appraisals will be made only where special questions of value are involved.

Q—Can advances for title certificates be made out of the rent due the owner?

A—The NHA will arrange for covering the cost of title certification.

Q—Will the leases be recorded?

A—Yes. All leases taken for conversion for war housing will be recorded.

Q—How will the properties be managed?

A—By contract brokers employed in the name of the government by the HOLC.

Q—Must tenants be selected from lists submitted by the War Housing Centers?

A—Yes. The program is limited to eligible war workers.

Q—Is the owner required to obtain the mortgagee's consent to the transaction?

A—Yes. Evidence of this must be presented at the time the lease is executed.

Q—Will the lease cover the entire property where the owner retains part of it for his own use?

A—Yes. The owner will become a tenant as to that portion of the property set aside for his own use.

Q—Will the NHA provide furniture?

A—No. Each tenant must arrange to rent or purchase his furniture independently.

Q—Is the $400 limit per room for conversion costs computed on the basis of the additional rooms provided?

A—The maximum allowable conversion cost is computed on the total number of rooms provided for war workers, not merely on the number of new rooms created.

Q—Is the cost of providing additional family units in existing structures limited to conversion costs?

A—No. It includes costs of alterations and other obligations as to back debts and taxes assumed in the acquisition of the lease.

A pilot winging over enemy lines . . . or an engineer pounding the high-iron with a trainload of troops and supplies . . . both are "on target." For their final objective is the same—victory for American arms!

On last December 7th, the railroads of America went all-out for war. They undertook the biggest mass transportation job in history . . . a job which, since Pearl Harbor, has meant moving 8,000,000 men in military service . . . unloading of 2,500 to 3,000 cars of export freight at seaports each day . . . delivering 7,000 cars daily to Government construction projects and training camps . . . carrying raw materials to war plants and bringing back the finished fighting tools. Jobs like these for the Army and Navy are vital military missions which only the railroads can perform.

Yes, the railroads are "on target" . . . and there they'll stay, until the last gun is fired.

Systematic Saving

THE treasury department, having a year-end campaign to increase payroll savings from $350,000,000 to $500,000,000 a month by Jan. 1, has gained invaluable experience in the modern technique of public finance.

It is plain now that the government must look increasingly to the source of national income for revenue, instead of waiting to attack concentrations of wealth in private and corporate hands. The concentrations can not do the job any more; they must be supplanted by the thinner but still productive distribution in the hands of small earners.

Sale of War Stamps and Bonds through the payroll saving plan has revealed possibilities to investors as well as the treasury. It is a virtually painless way to build a backlog for post-war spending, and it is so logical that already there is an insistent demand for the same method—deduction at the source—to meet income taxes.

The treasury estimates that 22,000,000 workers—now are saving for themselves and financing their government through the payroll plan. It wants another 8,000,000 by the end of the year. The novelty has worn off the purchasing of War Bonds, but they continue to be the safest investment there is—an investment open to every person who is trying to widen his margin of security by using his money wisely.

Are We Awake Yet?

EXACTLY a year ago the special Japanese envoy who was going to rescue negotiations with the United States from a dangerous deadlock reached Washington. A great many Americans settled back to await developments.

A month earlier the Konoye cabinet collapsed and was replaced with an overtly military group, but Saburo Kurusu, the envoy, explained that Tojo, the new Japanese premier, wanted peace. Peace, insisted Kurusu, was the solution; that was what he had come to Washington to obtain—peace.

As time passed it became evident that the peace would have to be on Japanese terms. Still the American public didn't realize what was developing; that the deadlock war becoming more dangerous each day.

Whether or not Washington knew what was happening is problematic—a secret to be revealed some day in the future when the principals publish their memoirs. The circumstantial evidence, reaching a climax at Pearl Harbor, suggests that Washington, too, was asleep to the consequences of policies that had been followed too long in the Pacific to be overcome by negotiations. There is excellent reason to believe the Japanese had made up their minds to begin the war before Kurusu reached Washington.

This has been a year of rude awakening, and rudest has been the awakening in the Pacific where the United States has paid a ghastly price for fumbling the Japanese problem. It is still paying the price, and in many respects it is still fumbling.

All Is Forgiven

THE TWO major diplomatic campaigns waged in Washington as part of the war have concerned the Japanese and the French. The latter was a success; it trapped Hitler and Mussolini. The former was a failure.

In each case, unfortunately, the strategy called for fooling the people at home as well as the governments abroad. Thus, Americans were encouraged to believe in the case of Japan that the diplomats had the situation well in hand, though subsequent disclosures proved they were stalling for time. There even is reason to suspect the government kept its own military commanders inadequately informed about the imminence of danger; like the people, they were unprepared for the Japanese blow when it fell last Dec. 7. It was just a year ago, incidentally, that the special Japanese ambassador, Kurusu, was on his way to Washington, where he arrived Nov. 16.

In the case of France, the deception that convinced Americans their government was taking Vichy seriously also convinced the Germans and Italians. It made possible the surprise move in Africa, which clearly was worth all the domestic misgivings caused by the apparent attempt to uphold the hands of men dominated by Berlin. It is unfortunate, but true, that one of the best ways to deceive the enemy is to deceive the people. When the trick works, all is forgiven. It is true, but unfortunate, that when the trick backfires, as it did at Pearl Harbor, a special commission is going to be necessary to explain away the disaster.

News Behind the News

Nelson vs. Ickes Dispute Develops Over Proposed Gas Ration Reduction in East.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17—Some [illegible] private [illegible] conversations to Donald Nelson that [illegible] gas ration [illegible] the Eastern seaboard. Up to the African campaign, they filled their Atlantic needs largely at gulf ports.

Also, the transportation situation is showing signs of deterioration. Only a few ocean tankers, so slow as to be no use to the Army and Navy, are still in private operation. Railroad tank cars are showing the wear of the terrific pace and repair shops are crowded.

But some steps besides cutting coupon values can be taken. A great leakage in unnecessary consumption is supposed to exist in "S" books. On Dec. 1, all such commercial users will be rationed on a basis of mileage used, instead of coupon values. This, in itself, may make up the shortages Ickes foresees.

While the fuel and gas situation is darkening beyond expectations for winter, drastic action against coupon holders is likely to wait.

18-Hour Week

That Truman committee report demanding that the unions go to a 48 hour week for war work was written by a union labor man, Senator Kilgore of West Virginia, who is considered a mine worker representative. New Dealing Senator Jim Mead is also on the committee, which has a strongly pro-administration reputation.

Not only from this, but from other congressional evidence, it is becoming plain the 40-hour week arrangement is to be changed. Obviously, the government cannot try a draft of managers or take any firm steps to promote war production in that way, with union labor enjoying a 40-hour week and working on the average 42.5 hours.

The question, however, is primarily a matter of pay. Time and a half or double time is generally paid above 40 hours to union men. The miners, for instance, who until recently have been on the five-day week are now going to work six, but they will get time and a half for the sixth day.

This practice opposes every administration purpose—the holding down of income to prevent inflation, price limitations to keep down war and living costs, etc.

The election results have given impetus to the prevailing congressional impression that the unions have not cardboxed as much in the war effort as other classes of citizens.

If the matter is allowed to drift on without solution it is likely the conservative congressional taxmakers will set, in the next tax bill—imposing perhaps a 50 per cent tax on time and a half or overtime as "excess earnings," or requiring such earnings to be invested in government bonds.

Maas' Talk

Quietude was the answer to Representative Maas' hot broadcast deploring the inefficiency of our naval war effort in the Pacific, but his views represented what many congressmen, perhaps a majority, really think, and have been saying among themselves.

Democratic Representative Lyndon Johnson of Texas has privately taken somewhat the same view, so it cannot be considered a political matter.

No one has taken up these charges, however, for several reasons. The naval command has been changed since the "sleeping cruiser" and other incidents occurred and naval communiques have been issued more promptly the past few weeks.

Also, the question of a unified Pacific command is strictly Mr. Roosevelt's problem alone. He is the only one who could join MacArthur's efforts and the Solomons Island campaign under one head, and apparently he takes the position they are joined through him now.

No observer can express any intelligent conclusion as to how right or wrong Maas was, in the light of the naval facts that have been made public.

The Navy has given out less news than any other government war bureau in town since the war started (and before) and, in this case, declined to make even unofficial comment.

Peek at Aviation's Future

New Book Paints Picture of New Era in Air.

By JAMES T. CARTER
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 17—"Shepherds will fly from the crags of Tibet to universities in Vladivostok, and fly back to their native villages as doctors. . . .

"Breakfast in New York and dinner in Paris on the same day. . . .

"Instead of a car in every garage, there will be a helicopter. . . .

"Powerful cargo-carrying sky trucks will tow trains of cargo-carrying gliders. . . .

"Glider trains, towed by a passenger-carrying plane that will fly hundreds of miles, will drop gliders carrying local passengers at airports all along the route. . . ."

A pipe-dream? Impossible?

Not in the opinion of Harry Bruno, who predicts these and even more advanced feats for aviation.

And he predicts them for the next ten years.

In his book "Wings Over America," published today by Robert M. McBride & Company, Bruno says aviation will make greater strides in the coming decade than it has since that day December day 39 years ago when Orville and Wilbur Wright put wings on man.

Harry Bruno built and flew the world's smallest monoplane glider at Montclair, N. J., in 1910.

Flier at 17

He was a pilot in the United States aeronautical reserve at the age of 17.

He served with the British royal flying corps in Canada during the World war.

He made the first circumnavigation of the Great Lakes in a flying boat in 1921.

He has lived and breathed aviation for three decades; as one of the top aviation publicists of the country, he grew up with American aviation and its heroes.

"Not for all the treasures in the strong boxes of the world's potentates would I swap the 32 years I have spent in aviation," writes this 49-year-old London-born aviation enthusiast.

I read Bruno's book and when I came to this sentence—

"Half-naked natives from the forests of Malay will fly to universities in California or Australia and fly back to their native villages as agronomists and physicists."

—I decided to ask him point-blank if that was what he really thought.

So we had lunch together—in the Rainbow room atop the RCA building, an appropriate spot for such a sky-minded citizen—and he elaborated on his view of the forthcoming role of aviation in education.

"Certainly," he declared. "After the war schools everywhere will transport planeloads of students to far countries as a matter of course."

He referred me to some specific forecasts in his book:

"California high school youngsters will spend two-week study vacations in China reached after a fast hop in a plane or a huge dirigible.

"The graduating classes of Hudson's bay Eskimo elementary schools will fly to New York or Chicago for supervised study-visits."

Then he went on to predict that the big planes of 1952 will soar through the stratosphere at 600 miles an hour or more; that they will have sealed, oxygen-equipped cabins, carry more than 200 passengers with luxury and comfort afforded by the Queen Mary and the Normandie in their hey-day.

He went further.

Such planes, he asserted, will be powered by banks of gas-burning engines of 5,000 horsepower, and, eventually by electric engines of double that horsepower.

"Now suppose," Bruno said, "it's 1952 and you've got a two-weeks' vacation and a big desire to see Europe. The only catch is, your pocketbook isn't as big as that desire.

"Instead of taking the flying boat, you can cross the Atlantic cheaply in one of the comfortable dirigibles. They'll take no more than 36 hours to set you down on the other side, and they'll be able to charge low passenger rates because they'll carry twice as many passengers as a flying boat, as well as another pay load of fast freight."

Bruno is hot on the subject of helicopters, those now-curious-looking flying machines powered by four horizontal blades that can ascend straight into the air and sit down on a dime.

"The name of Igor Sikorsky will be as well known as Henry Ford's," Bruno says, "for his helicopter will all but replace the horseless carriage as the new means of popular transportation."

Bruno says the 'copters will be so safe and cheap that 'teen-age youngsters will fly them.

"These tiny 'copters, when school lets out, will fill the skies as the bicycles of our youth filled the pre-war roads," he declares.

And wait—Bruno isn't through yet.

Motorless flight, he says, will be the great sport of youth, but gliders will not be made solely for amusement.

He sees them as "the great transportation medium of commuting" when used as sky trains and also as cargo carriers, transporting but the bulkiest slow freight.

For the final fillip, he envisions "an international aerial police force" which "will have no trouble maintaining order and understanding."

Bruno isn't alone in all these beliefs; if you think he's exaggerated, just ask such aviation pioneers as Igor Sikorsky or Alexander De Seversky.

They think he's too conservative.

"THE RAP"

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO.

It was Thursday, Nov. 17, 1932.

Marion and other localities over a wide part of Ohio were covered with a blanket of snow and the temperature here dropped to the lowest point of the winter, 21 degrees above zero. A break in the cold wave was expected soon.

Marion's police department launched a drive against punchboards, confiscating some in several business places. One proprietor was fined $10 and costs in municipal court on a charge of exhibiting gambling devices.

Charles E. Adams of Toledo, superintendent of the Toledo division of the Pennsylvania railroad, was speaker at the Marion Kiwanis club meeting. He took as his subject, "Pertinent Railroad Problems."

Marion was selected as the place of the next quarterly meeting of District No. 2, Ohio State Funeral Directors association, in a session held at Mansfield.

Marion Boy Scouts and scoutmasters received awards at a Harding area Boy Scout court of honor held in the Mt. Gilead High school auditorium. They included Harold White, David Murray, William Leffler, William Meany, Howard Fogle, Alfred Exlon Jr., Stanley Neal, Raymond George and Paul Young.

"Russian Literature" was the program topic when the Quest club held its annual guest party at the home of Miss Ruby Craner on Cherry street.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

It was Friday, Nov. 17, 1922.

As a result of the overthrow of his government, Sultan Mohammed VI fled from Turkey and took refuge on the British warship Malaya, as it lay at anchor in the Golden Horn. The ship later steamed for Malta, British naval base in the Mediterranean.

Charles M. Schwab, noted steel magnate, in an interview with the press, voiced the opinion that while business conditions in the United States and throughout the world generally were unsettled because of uncertainty over the European situation, it was not up to the United States to call any world economic conference such as had been proposed in some quarters. Schwab said, "I am a firm believer in the principles laid down by the men who founded this country, the principles of no entangling alliances abroad."

Construction of a new factory building for the Fairfield Engineering Co., moving here from Lancaster, was scheduled to be started the following week on property purchased by the company from the Henry True estate, just south of the Big Four tracks on Barnhart street.

What was termed the most serious of the year's hunting accidents up to this time occured when Frank Lowry of Senate street was shot through the left thigh by the discharge of a shotgun in an automobile about four miles north of Marion. The charge severed an artery and the young man almost bled to death, a news report stated.

The feature picture at the Marion theater was "Red Hot Romance" starring John Emerson and Anita Loos and as a comedy attraction Lloyd Hamilton was shown in "The Speeder." At the Grand Martin's Footlight Follies were appearing on the stage with three shows daily, the musical comedy offering on this date being "Flirts and Skirts."

This Is the Newspaper

An Eloquent Symbol of America.

R. D. JACKSON, president of the G. Edwin Smith Shoe Co., in the current month's publication of Nisley News, house organ for the retail store group, has expressed his viewpoint of the newspaper's place in community life in the following comment:

"When a Nisley manager hands our weekly ad plate to the representative of his daily newspaper we often wonder if he ever stops to think of the world that lies behind that new paper mon — a world more magnificently and more eloquently representative of America than any symbol of which we know, with the exception of the United States flag.

"Beacon light for all the freedoms, the daily newspaper, through its speedy dissemination of news, information, opinion, wit, satire, (yes, and even disagreement) keeps us alive and alert to the ebb and flow of civilization all over the world.

"Dark indeed would be the dismal day that would see the dimming of that beacon light . . . a light borne in the hearts of free men and nourished upon the principles of fearlessness and fairness by men of high courage and great vision.

". . . Men like Adolph Ochs, William Rockhill Nelson, Henry Watterson and countless others who foresaw the boundless possibilities for good in the publication of daily newspapers and who created and perpetuated rigid codes of practice that serve today as safeguards and patterns for a younger generation of newspapermen.

"Through the development, by newspapers, of their own news-gathering associations such as the Associated Press, The United Press and the International News Service, this younger generation of newspapermen now cover the world. They bring to us by cable, by wire, by teletype and wire-photo today's news today, from all of the far corners of the earth.

"Add to this a complete daily resume of information and opinion upon social, religious, educational, economic, political and scientific activities one marvel at their ability to produce such a product at the cost of only a few pennies to each reader.

"There is yet another service rendered by daily newspapers for which they are paid, (all are in (by reason of that very fact) are reluctant to [illegible] the many favors that the reader gets for the price [illegible] Yet survey after survey has shown that women turn first to the store advertisements and then to the news. The fact that women buy 85 per cent of all the things that are bought for the family and the home should be evidence enough that these advertisements do serve a useful purpose and are therefore a service.

"Literally alive with illustrated fashion news, prices and descriptions upon every imaginable kind of food, medicine, utensil and article of apparel, the advertisements are a constant source of dependable, up-to-the-minute information for the one who has the responsibility of buying the right things at the right prices for the home and the family."

Dewey's Destiny

We Lost a Bet On Him — But It's Plain Now How Fate Was Taking Care of His Life.

By DAMON RUNYON

DESTINY knows what is good for Thomas Dewey. I don't care what anybody could have nobbed the Republican nomination for president at Philadelphia on the first ballot had he been willing to do a little trading around among the power bosses of the big delegations that controlled the issue immediately were in there fairly sweating for somebody to come to them and say something.

I say had he been willing, though I should make it read had he been willing enough. Some of the old timers thought Dewey's political dumbness on the part of himself and his handlers to hold themselves aloof from the fight as they certainly did, but I can see that destiny was in there pitching for Tom Dewey.

Anyway, the Dewey mob did not make a move toward dickering when all they had to do was to send some sure-footed guy to see the bosses and say, "Well, what do you want?" and then, "Well, you've got it."

Afterward I heard that Dewey was then by way of being an amateur in the political arena, took the attitude that he would not make any promises, which was all very high-minded but no way to win a nomination. You have to make promises even if you don't intend to keep them.

BUT as I say, I can see now that destiny was throwing the curves for the man with the mustache, though not knowing about it at the time. I was sore at Dewey because I had a little bet on him to stick his lip bristles in there in front inside of three ballots.

I think one small attempt was made to put a deal over with Sen. Taft on the basis of Dewey getting the nomination for vice president, but it was said that Taft's family would not agree to him taking second place to Tom.

So Dewey stood his hand as the cards fell and would have no truck with any of the weatherbeaten old political sharpers who could have made deals in advance that would have pushed him over on the first ballot. You know what subsequently happened.

Wendell Willkie came a-bustling into the out of nowhere, politically, and got the nomination, but it is clear to me at this moment that it was only because destiny was of the opinion that it was not time for Dewey.

He could not have defeated President Roosevelt and he might have got a worse whipping than Willkie and would have been a political dead fish for a long time, if not all time. So dead, in fact, that I doubt if he would now be governor-elect of the Empire State. It is true that he was defeated by Governor Lehman but it was a photo-finish and in that kind of a decision is not like getting licked under in a national contest.

You destiny was hep to Dewey's interests.

HE has said he will serve out his term as governor of New York, and far be it from me to doubt his word. But it turns out a poor governor I do not see how he can combat his political fate when it rolls around and his party starts slating a presidential candidate and remembers that he is one of the greatest vote-getters in history—barely missing the presidential nomination at 38, off nothing more than a good local record as a district attorney. I look for Lehman to a head in his first try for the governorship of his home state and then to step in off by himself on his next effort.

Yes, I know that much can happen between now and 1944, and a lot depends on how the war is going then, if it is still on, but as far as the Republican nomination is concerned I will take Dewey against the field and I have discovered the way he has been marked by destiny.

Our Biggest Problem

(From The Magazine of Wall Street)

In the entire war effort the most difficult and controversial issue now facing the government and the people is the effective mobilization of civilian manpower and womanpower. On the executive side at Washington it is believed that compulsory "selective service" for civilians will have to come—pretty much as it came, much earlier, in England. At this time, majority opinion in Congress ranges from opposition to lack of conviction.

Whether or not a compulsory program is eventually adopted, a valid reason for action now is the fact that we are not utilizing the present labor supply with the realism demanded under war conditions. In England the average work week is 55 to 60 hours, and any plant which drops below a minimum standard of 52 hours invites official censure and action. Here, according to latest government figures, the average work week in durable goods industries is 45.2 hours, and in non-durable goods industries it is 39.9 hours. In some industries, for instance wearing apparel and coal mining, it is less than 36 hours.

The 40-hour week law, with time and a half for overtime, was adopted at a time of depression in employment, with the primary object of spreading work and increasing purchasing power. Its retention under present conditions is absurd.

Within the New Deal and the labor unions the sponsors and advocates of this law continue to assert that it is not a bar to longer hours of work. All that need be done, they say, is for employers to pay the overtime and employees then will work longer hours. The argument is specious. If this law is not responsible for the present average of only 39.9 hours in durable goods industries, what is? To expect that price-frozen civilian industries which can pay the 50 per cent overtime rate is ridiculous.

The essential point is this: Raising the standard work week from 40 to 48 hours would increase output of a given labor force by 20 per cent or, maintaining previous output, would free 20 per cent of the workers for essential jobs. Until the government cuts out some of the waste in the present utilization of our manpower and womanpower—the biggest waste being represented by short hours and a large percentage of some 5,000,000 civilians on governmental payrolls — the advocates of compulsory national service for civilians are going to be on very weak ground.

WILLKIE CALLS FOR ALLIED AGREEMENT

Declares United Nations Must Have Understanding.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 17—With a plea for early agreement among the allied nations on the aims of the war, Wendell Willkie says "every one of us" is obligated to speak out "freely and frankly across the oceans."

"Unless we have a similar idea of what they are planning in England and in the Commonwealth, there can be no hope of agreement," he told the New York Herald Tribune forum last night.

"We must know what the people of Russia and China aim for and we must let them know our aims.

"It is the view of some that it is just short of suicide to face the position that our country should hold its hopes for fear of causing dissent. The immediate and sometimes partisan policies of the leaders are condemned.

Willkie declared that unless the people of all the United Nations agreed immediately on their purposes, idealistic hopes such as those expressed in the Atlantic charter "will live merely to mock us" as he said Woodrow Wilson's fourteen points did.

Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard told the forum yesterday that it was a political necessity that starvation disappear from any country occupied by American forces.

"We must make sure that reoccupation by our forces," he said in a prepared address, "will be accompanied by a swift and well-planned importation of food, seed and essential supplies."

Wickard said that there might be chaos behind the lines if freed people were not fed, but that when the word went out that freedom meant a square meal "the people in territory still under the conqueror will work just that much harder for liberation."

Demand Explanation of Deal with Darlan

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Nov. 17—A demand for a fuller explanation of United States Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's deal with Admiral Jean Darlan reopened general debate in the house of commons today.

Asserting that the "strange appearance of Admiral Darlan on the scene" gave a "sinister side to the successful North African operation, Labor's Sir Percy Harris declared:

"This has been a rather bitter pill for those who have been loyal to the cause of France under the leadership of General DeGaulle to swallow."

DeGaulle yesterday had disassociated the French national committee from the dealings with Darlan.

Most London morning newspapers expressed the belief that the Darlan revolution was only temporary.

DRAFT BILL CLAUSE TO BE INTERPRETED

Farm Deferment Clause Said To Be Badly Stated.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17—Selective service headquarters said today new teen-age draft bills' provision for deferring farm workers was so badly stated that official interpretation would be required.

Spokesmen said the provision, which some congressional proponents had said during debate would mean little if any change in present legislations, was being studied closely at headquarters preparatory to issuance of a definition for local boards.

The provision of the clause follows:

"Any registrant found by a selective service local board, subject to appeal in accordance with Section 10 (A) (2), to be necessary to and regularly engaged in an agricultural occupation or endeavor essential to the war effort, shall be deferred from training and service in the land and naval forces."

Although agriculture already was listed among some 20 activities deemed to be entitled to the support of the war effort, it was the only one given special deferment status through legislation.

This fact apparently has given rise to some concern at national headquarters that varying or extreme interpretations of the provision among the 6,500 local boards, some of which deal almost exclusively with farm workers, might upset quotas and calls.

Regulations which have been in effect for some time covering deferment in agriculture are one of the few actual activities permit local boards to reclassify 3-A farm workers in 3-B, adding occupational deferment to the dependency deferment they hold before.

While this type of classification does not assure deferment for any specified length of time, a number of essential positions both in agriculture and food processing were de-graded as essential in those fields of work.

Workers of these positions regardless of whether they have dependents, are eligible for deferment for specific periods, not to exceed six months except when extensions are granted after subsequent consideration.

WHEAT DEMAND NOW BENEFIT TO FARMERS

They Give New Twist to Federal Price Control.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 17 — Wheat farmers, who have waited long for parity prices, today at last were in a position to exact some retribution from the law of supply and demand, for years their worst enemy.

By holding on to their grain producers them elves were giving a novel twist to wartime price control.

It has been years since they have seen anything like parity prices, which government economists figure should give them purchasing power like that of the 1909-14 base period. After more than three years of worldwide war producers find they are receiving about 30 cents a bushel less than parity in the open market.

Those who cooperate with the government under the ever-normal granary program — receive parity for wheat only by obtaining government loans at 85 per cent, plus benefit payments roughly making up the remaining 15 per cent.

However, market prices are only about 82 per cent of parity, or around $1.26 in Chicago for No. 2 hard.

When the current wheat season began July 1 there were about 1,617,000,000 bushels in sight—an all-time record. Since, traders estimate close to 300,000,000 bushels have been consumed. The government owns about 300,000,000 bushels of old grain and more than 400,000,000 of the 1942 crop have been stored for loans, leaving approximately 600,000,000 still "free," enough to meet requirements until after the 1943 crop becomes available.

But producers are not selling this 600,000,000 bushels freely. Many farmers are sitting tight. Some of it will be [illegible] loans.

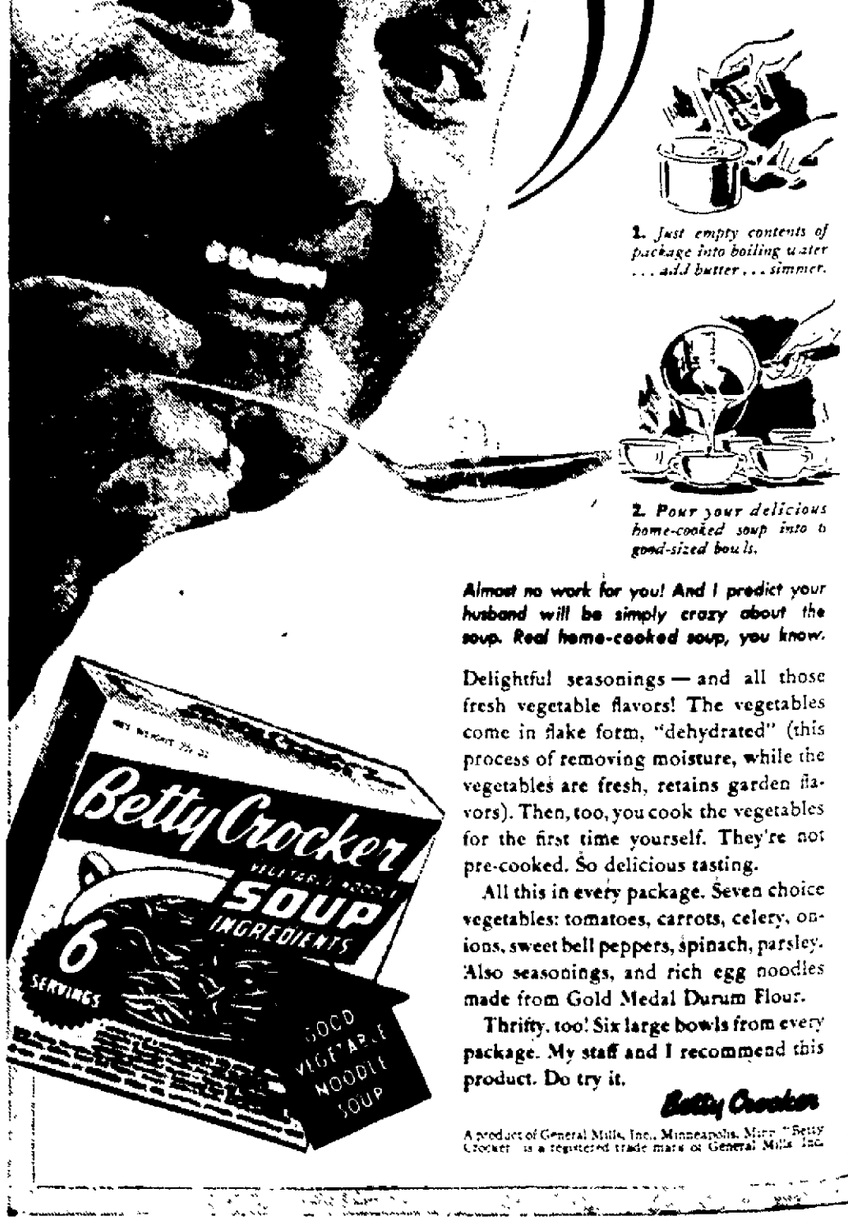
VICKS VAPORUB

So it's easy? Let's have this soup often!



1. Just empty contents of package into boiling water . . . add butter . . . simmer.

2. Pour your delicious home-cooked soup into 6 good-sized bowls.

Almost no work for you! And I predict your husband will be simply crazy about the soup. Real home-cooked soup, you know.

Delightful seasonings — and all those fresh vegetable flavors! The vegetables come in flake form, "dehydrated" (this process of removing moisture, while the vegetables are fresh, retains garden flavors). Then, too, you cook the vegetables for the first time yourself. They're not pre-cooked. So delicious tasting.

All this in every package. Seven choice vegetables: tomatoes, carrots, celery, onions, sweet bell peppers, spinach, parsley. Also seasonings, and rich egg noodles made from Gold Medal Durum Flour.

Thrifty, too! Six large bowls from every package. My staff and I recommend this product. Do try it.

L. E. Michel, secretary of the Marion Chamber of Commerce, showed a short movie, "Get in the Scrap," at a meeting of the Lions club Monday noon.

Two former members who are now in the armed forces, Richard Parish and Sam Myers, attended the meeting. Hugh Hay, scout executive, was a guest.

It was announced that a zone meeting of Lions clubs would be held Wednesday night at Bucyrus. Nov. 28 was set as the tentative date for the first in a series of dances to be given this winter by the Lions club.

AFRICA

axis thesis that the Germans and Italians moved into Tunisia "with the full understanding and approval of French authorities."

Le Matin was quoted as saying that the announcement of the move from Berlin and Rome would have come only after the axis troops were solidly in position.

"Now Rommel is covered on his western flank," Le Matin was quoted as commenting, "and he can therefore continue his retreat movements under the best conditions."

Fighting Reports Premature

In the air and, to a lesser extent, at sea, the battle already was joined as Malta-based planes of the RAF continued to batter at the axis-held airport near Tunis, but a spokesman at allied headquarters in North Africa said last night reports of fighting between allied and axis troops at Bizerte were premature.

Both the radio at Morocco and axis stations had reported contact between the opposing forces, readying for a clash which will determine the success of the allied operation in North Africa and probably settle the future of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's bedraggled Africa corps.

The London Daily Express also said the British and American troops in Tunisia were "reported to be fighting a fierce battle with the Germans near Tunis," but there was no confirmation for the report.

Certain it was that the clash could not be long delayed.

French forces in Tunisia already were fighting the Germans and Italians. The American consul at Tunis said that French troops near Tunis had thrown back German patrols.

The consul added that "the large Italian settlement is frightened to death."

French troops apparently were joining the British and American columns speeding to battle as they passed through the Tunisian countryside.

At Oran, a French force joined United States troops at their Algerian stations, a communique said.

While the activities at sea were clouded in secrecy, the British navy unquestionably was contesting any axis effort to reinforce the Nazi garrisons in Tunisia by sea and a communique said "the royal navy maintains control of the western Mediterranean and its approaches."

"This naval force has sustained losses," the communique added, "but these have been small in proportion to the size of operations and casualties on the whole have been light."

The American consul at Tunis on arriving in Algeria said he believed the Germans and Italians were trying to keep the ports of Tunis and Bizerte open to support Marshal Rommel's retreating forces, last reported in the neighborhood of El Agheila, Libya, some 400 miles from his main base at Tripoli.

A German radio report of fighting between axis and allied forces in Tunisia said only that a "counter attack" was taken against United States forces."

The German-fettered Petain government and its role in the bearienng developments in North Africa was a question which closely engaged the attention of fighting French leaders here in London.

Gen. Charles De Gaulle's headquarters issued a statement describing Admiral Jean Darlan as "The No. 2 traitor of France" and declaring the Fighting French were "taking no part whatsoever in negotiations in progress in North Africa with representatives of Vichy.

Other developments in the global war:

Russian Front—Soviet headquarters reported that the Red armies were holding solidly all along the wintry front, even taking the initiative at some points, and declared that 1,500 more Germans were killed in the historic siege of Stalingrad.

Another 1,500 Germans were left dead on the northern battlefield below Leningrad, in the Volkhov sector, where the Russians were reported advancing after a long period of quiet.

Libyan Campaign—Italian headquarters reported fierce fighting across the western desert hump between Derna and Bengasi as axis forces continued to retreat toward Italian Tripolitania.

London military quarters said desperate axis rearguard actions had delayed the pursuing British Eighth army enough to prevent Gen. B. L. Montgomery from delivering the coup de grace, but there was still no sign of a determined stand by the beaten enemy.

TAX RATES

cause less money is required for debt payment next year. The added revenue for operating purposes will be approximately $8,000.

While the city is getting $8,000 more for operating purposes than in the preceding year, the city schools will be receiving about $28,600 more for the same purposes. Commenting on the increases allowed these two subdivisions, Auditor Mounts pointed out that the city schools spent a far greater percentage of their total income for salaries than the municipal government. Since salary requirements are more apt to increase during wartime than such expenses as water, street lights and other fixed expenses, it was decided that the public schools should receive a larger increase in revenue than the city government, he said.

Among the nine taxing districts where rates were increased, one was boosted by recent action of voters. In Scott township a five-mill school levy was voted that boosted the rate to 15 mills, an increase of 3.26 mills. At LaRue, where another large increase was noted, bonds for purchase of fire-fighting equipment helped boost the total. The new LaRue rate is 17.04 or 2.04 mills above a year ago. All the other differences are in terms of fraction of a mill and are the result of minor readjustments of millage.

A list of the 48 taxing districts in the county and the tax rate for each is listed herewith. Whenever the new rate is higher or lower than the 1941 rates, the amount of increase or decrease is indicated in parentheses. Unless otherwise noted, the 1942 rates are the same as the 1941 figures.

RUMANIAN PRIESTS INDICTED BY U. S.

Face Espionage Charges with Detroit Editor.

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Nov. 17—The federal grand jury today indicted two priests of the Rumanian Orthodox church and an editor on charges of espionage.

The priests are Father Glighaerie Moraru of Dearborn, Mich., identified in the indictment as leader in North America of the Free Rumania movement; and Father Stephan Opreanu of Detroit. Opreanu and George Zamfir, Detroit editor of Rumanian publications, were named as agents of Moraru.

Louis M. Hopping, assistant district attorney, said Moraru twice visited the former King Carol of Rumania in Mexico and received $12,000 from him to further the movement.

One of the four counts in the indictment charges violation of the espionage act. The others charged the defendants acted as agents of an enemy power, failed to register as foreign agents, and formulated propaganda without identifying it as such or furnishing data to the government.

Conviction could bring [illegible] a maximum prison [illegible] years on each [illegible]

CHRISTMAS BONUS STILL O. K. WITH U. S.

They Can Be Paid If They Are Traditional.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17—You can still get (or give) that traditional Christmas bonus, and federal approval isn't necessary.

But note that it must be traditional. In other words, this is not the year to start a bonus custom, just because business is good. It is not the year to increase it, either. Of course, if bonuses have been based on a percentage of salary, and the salary has increased, then the amount of bonus also increases, but not the percentage. But if the bonus has been a fixed amount, it cannot be increased above the sum given in the last bonus year.

War labor board officials also called attention today to the fact that employers who gave wage increases between Oct. 3 and Nov. 7 without obtaining board approval, have two more weeks to ask for a retroactive O. K. This grace period, expiring Dec. 1, was allowed to prevent undue hardships resulting from confusion in the period of transition which began with the President's executive order on Oct. 3. Penalties are tough on the employer, and the increases will be stopped, too, if the board finds later its regulations have been violated.

Employers of no more than eight persons need not get approval for increases. They are exempt, so long as price ceilings are not involved. There are also a number of circumstances in which individual increases may be given without board approval, such as promotion or reclassification of the employe, for merit within established rate ranges; where there is an established plan of increases based on length of service; where there is increased productivity under piece-work or incentive plans, or under an apprentice or trainee system.

3,000 NAZI DEAD ON TWO FRONTS

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, Nov. 17—The Red army killed more than 3,000 Germans in fresh fighting while holding solidly all along the wintry front and taking the initiative at some points, today's early war communique reported.

The official report said the Germans in the past two days spent 1,500 lives in futile efforts to retake an important town on the Volkhov front in the Leningrad sector where the Russians had seized the initiative and advanced after a long period of relative calm.

A like number of Nazis were sacrificed Monday in renewed attacks at Stalingrad, the communique said, and the invaders made no headway at all as their siege of the Volga citadel entered its 13th punishing week.

Another slight Russian gain was reported in the mid-Caucasian area southeast of Nalchik where only a few weeks ago the axis threatened to effect a major break-through toward the great Soviet oil stores.

Japs Fight Each Other

So great was the confusion of the part of Japan's naval units that at one time two Japanese forces were firing at each other.

"We hope," he commended wryly, "that they matched their usual high skill in that engagement."

Battleships of both sides participated in these brief, bitter fights, two night engagements and one early morning affair, but the Japanese were without airplane carriers.

"Either they didn't have any left, their losses being greater in the Oct. 26 engagement than we estimated, or they didn't choose to risk them," the Admiral Nimitz said.

Nimitz estimated between 20,000 and 40,000 Jap troops went down on the sunken transports, which he described as "jammed full."

If he were a Jap commander, he said, "I'd be sweating and bleeding if I had to explain such a loss."

Our over-all loss of personnel was relatively small while that of Japan was tremendous, he said.

With a further note of optimism, Admiral Nimitz recalled that months ago he mentioned that "we were behind the eight-ball" but now "things are looking up all the time. I don't think we are so close to the eight-ball now. However, we have not reached the stage where we can roam carefree over the ocean."

Jap Radio Says U. S. Kept in Dark

NEW YORK, Nov. 17—The office of war information recorded a Tokyo broadcast today in which the Japanese people were told the American navy's "miserable defeat is kept in the dark" by the navy communique disclosing the defeating Nimitz administered to Japan in the latest Solomon Islands action.

Curiously, this Japanese-language broadcast for home consumption was followed up by propaganda beamed to the United States about the "honesty" of Japanese communiques. Other English language broadcasts, reported here and over again the imperial Japanese exaggerated claims of colossal destruction of American naval power in the Solomons.

ships into aircraft carriers was going along with gratifying speed."

Knox called the Solomons battle the "greatest surface action of this war to date" but said it was not "greater than Jutland."

23 Japs Ships Destroyed

In a salvage Tuesday conflict that sent the Jap's battered naval remnants into fleeing, 24 Nipponese ships were sunk, seven more damaged and possibly 20,000 to 40,000 Japanese troops were lost in the swirl of sunken transports.

First details of the battle that raged from Nov. 13 to 15 were released by the navy last night. Further reports may boost the staggering toll taken of enemy ships but already the victory was hailed by naval officers unofficially as the greatest of the war thus far, and perhaps of modern times.

The partial reports listed the sinking of a Japanese battleship, three heavy cruisers, two light cruisers, five destroyers, eight crowded transports and four cargo ships. The American losses were given as two light cruisers and six destroyers.

Thus, in 11 months of war, Associated Press records show that 365 Japanese ships have been sent to the bottom of the Pacific as against 84 American vessels, including those at Pearl Harbor.

Of these losses, 110 were Japanese warships and 50 were American.

Fight At Close Range

Much of the running sea fight was fought at close range and in darkness. So furious was the action that at one time two of three large Japanese units that converged for an attack on prized Guadalcanal island "seemed confused," the navy said, and "were firing at each other."

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet, declared at Pearl Harbor last night he believed the Japanese "brought down everything they had."

"As a result," he added, "All the enemy forces were either destroyed or driven back and a major victory was obtained by our gallant forces."

While battleships took part in the gigantic naval engagement, the Japanese brought no airplane carriers to bear, Nimitz expressed belief the foe either had no carriers left or "didn't choose to risk them." No mention was made as to whether American carriers participated.

Nimitz assertion that "both sides had battleships and that our battleships contributed to the loss of the enemy to a great degree," was the first official disclosure of the presence of the big U. S. battlewagons in the southwestern Pacific fighting. So far they have not been mentioned specifically in navy department communiques.

The navy's description of the spectacular combat, fought under the immediate direction of Vice Admiral William F. Halsey, told of the discovery early this month of heavy Japanese shipping concentrations in the New Britain-Northwestern Solomons area. This was the beginning of an attempted major assault to recapture Henderson airfield and other American positions in the Guadalcanal-Tulagi region.

Japs Start In Nov. 10

The Rising Sun's offensive was underway Nov. 10 with three naval forces steaming to the attack. One prong approached the southeastern Solomons from the north. The other detachments, counting many transports, closed in from Rabaul and Buin, where they already had felt the lash of bombs from Gen. Douglas MacArthur's planes.

The foe's spearhead—two battleships of the Kongo class, two heavy cruisers, four light cruisers and about 10 destroyers—bored into the Guadalcanal battle zone after midnight of Nov. 13.

An intended bombardment of the American-held airfield preparatory to a large scale landing of troops was thwarted suddenly by American warships arriving at the right moment. It was in this close-range battle that the Japanese vessels slammed away at each other, unwittingly committing a sort of naval hara-kiri.

The engagement also brought the death of Rear Admiral Daniel J. Callaghan, former naval aid to President Roosevelt. His flagship, which blew up an enemy cruiser, scored 18 hits on a battleship and sank a destroyer, finally took several 14-inch shells. The bridge was wrecked and Callaghan, "Uncle Dan" to many a navy man, was killed.

Miss Fisher Called for WAAC Service

Miss Alice Fisher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Fisher of 573 East Center street, the second Marion county woman to enlist and be accepted in the WAAC, will leave Sunday for Ft. Des Moines, Ia. She received her call Monday. Miss Fisher passed examinations at Ft. Hayes, Columbus, last month. She has been employed at the A&P Super Market on South Main street. The first Marion county woman to enroll in the army auxiliary corps was Miss Pauline Buckley of Morral who entered the service in August.

Daylight brought retirement of what remained of the Nipponese fleet. United States aircraft picked off crippled enemy vessels left behind as the foe retreated northward.

Stubbornly, the Japanese tried again to land heavy reinforcements for their forces on Guadalcanal. That afternoon 12 transports loaded with troops and heavily guarded by warships were spotted moving on to the embattled island from the Bougainville area.

Shortly after midnight on Nov. 14, the Nipponese warships fired round after round at the American positions on the island. Then their transports closed in for a landing.

U. S. Planes Strike

American planes struck quickly and viciously. Torpedoes and bombs smashed into the heavily-loaded transports and eight went to the bottom. The four others eluded the barrage and maneuvered toward Guadalcanal.

Four cargo transports, presumably these same vessels that had escaped the slaughter, were discovered the following day beached at Passafaruma about seven and a half miles west of Guadalcanal. Air, artillery and naval gun fire reduced them to wreckage.

Meanwhile, other Japanese warships collided again with American forces during the night of Nov. 14-15 near Guadalcanal. The navy was awaiting full reports on this encounter.

The sea battle ended that morning. A United States air patrol sighted the remainder of the Japanese fleet limping northward. It did not reappear.

Regardless of what enemy officers thought, spokesmen from the land of the rising sun claimed in short wave radio broadcasts that the American fleet had been annihilated again.

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 — Admiral Norman Scott of Kirkwood, Mo., 53, and Captain Cassin Young, 48, of Coronado, Calif., were killed in the four-hour night naval battle in the Solomons Islands on November 13, the navy department announced today.

Rear Admiral Scott was in command of a naval unit in the engagement and Captain Young, holder of the medal of honor for heroism at Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, was commander of Rear Admiral Daniel J. Callaghan's flagship. The death of Callaghan was reported by the navy yesterday shortly before announcement that American naval forces had scored a major victory over the Japanese armada.

The board proposed by Johnson would be similar to the Baruch committee which recently completed a study of the rubber situation. Its three members, to be appointed by the President, would represent agriculture, industry and the petroleum business.

Ever since announcement was made that gasoline rationing would be extended from the 17 eastern states to the entire nation, western and midwestern representatives, along with some from the south, have protested almost daily in the house that the move would unnecessarily inconvenience residents of those areas.

FBI Checks Rumors of Rationing Delay

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 17 — The office of price administration wants to know who and what are back of a flurry of false rumors, current in Cleveland and other midwestern cities, that there will be a second postponement of gasoline rationing.

So the federal bureau of investigation today is attempting to learn the sources of these reports that have deluged OPA offices with inquiries, the regional office of war information announced.

Flatly denying that there would be any further delay in starting nationwide rationing, the OPA asked the FBI investigation after receiving scores of queries from persons who said the understood gasoline rationing was to be abandoned, the OWI reported.

Registration for ration books opens tomorrow and the driving restrictions become effective Dec. 1. The original Nov. 22 date was abandoned because of a shortage of basic "A" ration books.

Canton McKinley - Massillon Game Is No. 2 Feature in Ohio This Week

Only Ohio State-Michigan Game Overshadows Battle of Two High School Powerhouses.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 17 — A conflict in dates with the Michigan-Ohio State football game Saturday is the only thing that keeps a grudge battle between Massillon and Canton McKinley from taking the play from the collegiate gridders.

Twenty-two thousand fans will pack Massillon stadium to see Massillon try to chalk up its 53rd game without a loss. That will surpass any other Ohio football crowd of the year except the throngs which attended Ohio State games or saw Notre Dame and Navy play at Cleveland.

Almost Even

A vastly improved Canton eleven, which trounced unbeaten Lakewood last week, is given its best chance of downing the powerful Tigers since 1933. McKinley hasn't beaten Massillon since 1934 although Canton holds a 22 to 21 edge in games won during their 47 years of rivalry. Other games ended in ties.

Massillon edged Erie East 13 to 6, although several injured players were on the sidelines resting for the McKinley tilt. Despite this rest, it still was considered doubtful whether Bob Graber, the Tigers' triple threat star, would be able to start Saturday. He has a double ankle sprain.

Lakewood was one of three unbeaten teams, two with long winning streaks, toppled into the defeated ranks last week. Lakewood, unbeaten previously in 21 games, fell before McKinley, 28-6.

Powhatan Falls

That unlucky "13" finally proved disastrous for Powhatan last Friday the 13th. With a record of being undefeated in 25 games, Powhatan lost to Yorkville 13 to 6. The week before Powhatan eased through with a 13-all tie with St. Clairsville.

Columbus North was the third unbeaten team to hit the dust, getting upset by Columbus East 13 to 12.

Undefeated teams and total victories included: Massillon 52, Xenia Soldiers and Sailors Orphans' home 28, Tiltonville 24, Toledo Libbey 17, Fredericktown 15, Miamisburg 8, Defiance 9, Dover 8, Boardman 8, Arlington 8, Hudson 8, Sandusky St. Marys 8, Dayton Oakwood 8, Ashtabula 8, Middleport 8, Versailles 8 and Clearview 7.

Plenty of Action To Take Place in Galion Tonight.

By LOREN W. TIBBALS
Marion Star Sports Editor

A double-barreled double feature, or in other words a thrilling climax to a very thrilling gridiron season, will materialize at Hotel Talbot in Galion when the N. C. O. conference officials and the league's sports writers go into their annual individual huddles.

Here's the Program

The work facing both groups already is set out:

Of course the league officials will formally award the 1942 conference grid championship to Marion Harding, unbeaten in five league scraps. Ashland, at the start of the season rated a strong chance to replace Marion as the league's top outfit again finished second after dropping a 14-13 decision to Marion. Unbeaten and unscored on before running into Marion, the Ashlands continued their pace after bumping against defeat in their battle for first place with the Proxies.

And then for the schoolmen there is the very important question as to the status of basketball for this season. If the league votes to continue varsity basketball permission will be asked to allow Harding to use the Thomas A. Edison Junior High school court as a home floor. A year ago the other five league towns turned up their heels to the same proposal but Harding officials are hoping for a change of heart. If the league refuses the offer it is almost certain Harding will be forced to give up basketball.

Pick League Team

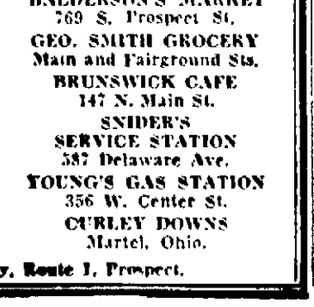
While loop officials are concerned with their own serious problems, the league's sports writing corps will assemble to thrash out the outstanding abilities of the individual performers contributing to the thrills of an exceptionally successful grid season.

In the recent past some of the selections have bounced back viciously to more or less ridicule the whole idea. For instance one of the league's better ends of a couple of years ago won only a second team berth. This year he copped a varsity berth on one of the nation's foremost college teams. The No. 1 back that season failed to win a spot on his college team.

However, we dood it before and probably we'll dood it again.

At any rate these gatherings of the clans probably will give vent to some interesting developments. Tomorrow we'll know whether or not there'll be N. C. O. basketball, and particularly, if Harding shares in the plans.

A day or so later and you'll have your mythical-league selections.



OHIO STATE FIFTH IN A.P. GRID POLL; GEORGIA 11 FIRST

Bulldogs Stay in Lead as Boston College Gets Strong Support.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 17—Georgia clung to first place in The Associated Press' poll to determine the nation's best college football team although its share of the first place votes slumped from 76 per cent a week ago to 54 per cent in today's tabulation.

Much of the favoritism formerly shown the southern powerhouse switched to Boston college but the Eagles were unable to better their third place rating behind Georgia and Georgia Tech.

69 Favors Georgia

Sixty-nine of the 126 voting experts figured the Bulldogs were the best although 85 of 112 had that opinion a week ago before the men of Wally Butts buried Chattanooga, 40 to 0.

However, the 56 to 6 pasting the Bostonians applied to Fordham brought them 37 first place votes in contrast with the 10 of a week ago. And Georgia Tech, which cleared one of the toughest hurdles in downing Alabama, gained points and respect but also lost first place votes in the general swing to the Eagles.

Michigan, which lived up to early season billing by downing Notre Dame, vaulted from sixth to fourth place while the Irish skidded from fourth to eighth.

The standings of the teams (first place votes in parenthesis, points figured on 10-9-8-7, etc. basis):

FIRST TEN
Georgia (69)	1171
Georgia Tech (13)	1095
Boston College (37)	1025
Michigan (3)	827
Ohio State (1)	609
Tulsa (2)	532
Wisconsin	408
Notre Dame	270
Alabama	266
Minnesota	150

ROBINSON TO FIGHT IN CLEVELAND DEC. 1

Will Appear on Christmas Charity Show.

By The Associated Press

Robinson, who has created a sensation in the east, will be featured in the main 10-round bout with his across-the-bridge neighbor, Izzy Jannazzo of Brooklyn.

Ezzard Charles, 20-year-old Cincinnati light heavyweight will exchange blows with heavyweight Joe Maxim of Cleveland in another 10-round headliner.

The third 10-rounder on the Cleveland card will mark the return to the ring of big Harry Bobo, the punching Pittsburgher, who will meet Larry Lane of Newark, N. J.

BRANCH RICKEY TO INTERVIEW DUROCHER

The Lip May Get Chance To Remain.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 — Leo Durocher went to see a man about a job today.

Durocher, who has managed the Brooklyn Dodgers for four seasons and is more than slightly interested in continuing in that capacity, was scheduled to talk over the situation with the new president of the National league baseball club, Branch Rickey.

Rickey arranged to meet with Durocher today, but declined to discuss the conference in advance. He indicated, however, that he would prefer an early decision on the managerial question.

Equipped with a magnifying glass and electric lights to illuminate its work, a stand for soldering small articles on work benches has been invented by a New York man.

Charles Csuri Big Factor In Favor of Buckeyes Saturday

Brown Rates Cleveland Youth as Best Tackle in Western Conference This Year.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 17 — A football player who is a sensation without being sensational is Charles "Chuck" Csuri, Ohio State tackle and candidate for all-American honors.

Paradoxical as it seems, it's Csuri's lack of sensational color that makes him what Coach Paul Brown describes as the greatest player, at his position, in the Western conference, the nation's toughest collegiate football circuit.

The 80,000 fans expected to jam Ohio stadium Saturday for a bitterly fought Michigan-Ohio game could well afford to keep an eye on this handsome, six-foot, 200-pound lineman. He'll be rubbing his nose in the dirt . . . in the thick of the action.

Makes Job Easy

Brown said Csuri "carries out his assignments in such a simple, effective way that he makes the job look easy. Tackles under our system have a tough job and this Csuri's a great one."

Shy and quiet off the field, the 20-year old Clevelander is a verbal pepperbox during a game and the tougher the conflict the better he loves it.

Mistakes? He makes them like everyone else, but his are fewer than the average player's and seldom does he make the same one twice. That's why Ohio's opposition has trouble denting the right side of the Buck line.

A tackle in high school, Csuri was tried at end and halfback at Ohio State, but ended up in the post he liked best—the unspectacular tackle position where the plaudits are few and the work hard.

Csuri and the other Ohio linemen get their big test trying to stop Michigan's Tom Kuzma, who has stepped right into the flying footsteps of his predecessor, halfback Tom Harmon.

Michigan's line of "Iron men"—only two substitutes were used against Notre Dame last week—also face the task of stopping Ohio's Gene Fekete and Paul Sarringhaus, the conference's leading scorers.

Expect Big Crowd

The game, expected to attract the season's largest football crowd for the nation, can be counted upon to provide one of the collegiate sport's greatest displays of gridiron speed and power. It'll be a scoring show from the opening kickoff.

Besides the traditional rivalry engendered by competition since 1897 the game also may decide the conference championship. A win would give Ohio an undisputed title. An Ohio loss would give Michigan a chance to share the crown with Wisconsin, provided the Badgers beat Minnesota.

Ohio players go back to the practice field this afternoon after a day of rest from the bruising 44 to 20 triumph over Illinois.

They were minus the help of "Touchdown Tommy" James, the 160-pound red-head who suffered a shoulder separation after ripping off two long touchdown runs against the Illini.

Brown said that James would be unable to play, making the fifth halfback on the injured list.

MAIN-GO STAR

A double main-go program is in store for Marion wrestling fans Thursday night at the armory arena on West Church street. Slated to meet in the first half of the double attraction are Steve Nenoff (above) and Larry Kasaboski. In the second half Fred Carone and Jack LaRue will oppose each other. Both matches will be for the best two out of three falls with two-hour time limits. The 30-minute preliminary event matches Jack Hobbs and Axel Madsen.

Snatches of Sports

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17—Notes on a heavy week-end in the sports-writing business. Friday is fight night at the Garden, and sometimes you wonder why you keep going there week after week. Of course you see some good scraps—and some bad ones, but it's one sure place to pick up the odd bit of news or gossip to use in a column . . Last Friday there was an undercurrent of excitement as the ringsiders discussed Sammy Angott's sudden abdication of the lightweight title and the probable effect upon the Beau Jack-Allie Stolz affair.

Saturday it was Baker field for the Yale-Princeton game, with a bitter wind whistling through the almost unprotected press box . . You just sat there and shook. Down on the field the wind did some strange tricks with the ball and so did the players but mostly it was pretty good football . . As an old grad, the result wasn't pleasing, but still Yale hadn't won for four years.

Sunday's a hockey night and it seemed queer to be expecting a poor game between the Rangers and Bruins. Always in the past those meetings had been the season's highspots . . But rookies will perform like rookies and they put a lot of action into it even if they did lack skill.

Monday it was the I. C. 4-A cross country meet . . Frank Dixon, a well-built, tan-skinned Negro lad from N. Y. U. made a show of the field.

It was a busy week-end, all right, but there's nothing doing for a few days now and you wonder what you'll write about until the next one comes along.

Success Result Of Team's Blocking, Galion Star Says

By The Associated Press

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 17—Jim Secrest, 19-year-old University of Rochester sophomore from Galion, O., has a simple explanation of why he's the East's leading football scorer.

"The other guys block all I do is run," he says modestly.

But the statistics make it appear more complicated than that.

They show that in eight games, Secrest scored 22 of his team's 36 touchdowns and added one conversion for 133 points—an average of 16.6 points a game. He has averaged 8.5 yards a try in rushing, caught 19 passes for 351 . . Coach Dud Degroot said: "Jimmy is one of the nicest kids I ever coached, and a natural ball carrier if I ever one but—I think it only fair point out he's had the b very good blocking."

Victory Brings Cheer in Ranks of United Nations

By The Associated Press

Widespread rejoicing today among United Nations at the United States navy's crushing victory over the Japanese in the Solomons carried a note of caution against over-confidence.

In Chungking, wild excited newsboys cried their extras with news of the victory. A government spokesman said, "The news satisfies us completely . . . victory can come only in installments."

At Melbourne, Prime Minister John Curtin said he was "grateful to the United States for the magnificent forces used in the most important theater of the war."

"The battle isn't over, but the enemy knows he has been beaten," he added.

The Australian navy and munitions minister, Norman J. M. Makin, said the Solomons action would give Australia much needed relief from possibility of invasion, but he feared only a round in the fight to free the eastern Pacific.

London newspapers heralded the battle as "the greatest sea battle of the war."

The Daily Express said: "Likely will prove to be the decisive action of the whole campaign."

Meanwhile the office of war information at Washington recorded a Tokyo broadcast in which the Japanese people were told the American navy's "invisible defeat is kept in the dark" the Japanese command exaggerated claims of "total destruction of American naval power were reported.

REPUBLICANS HEAR ELECTION WINNERS

Judge-Elect Jackson, Cong. Smith on Program Here.

Walter S. Jackson of Lima, successful candidate for judge of the appellate court, spoke at a joint meeting of the Marion county Republican executive committee, central committee and Young Republican club Monday night at the Republican headquarters on East Center street.

He said the Republican party is at the crossroads and constructive organization of all party units is imperative. He portrayed how 2,500 British Grenadiers routed 50,000 American militiamen from Washington in the War of 1812, burning the capitol with such speed and dispatch that the English general completed the still warm meal which had been served for the president. Therefore, he stated, a well organized minority with definite aims can win.

Congressman Frederick C. Smith talked on the supreme court ruling in regard to wheat penalties. He stated that in making such a ruling it was the first time in history that the government had encouraged counseling on the part of citizens to defeat a law.

Alfred Donithen gave a detailed report of party organization receipts and expenditure and reported that most of the bills had been paid leaving a substantial balance in the treasury.

Refreshments were served by a committee headed by Walter S. Guthrie.

LEADERS MAKE SLIGHT GAIN

But Stocks Generally Overlook Improvement in War Reports.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 17—Stocks generally ignored the good war news today although scattered market leaders managed to recover fractions of Monday's losses.

Brokers appeared disappointed that the smashing U. S. naval defeat of the Japanese in the Solomons did not touch off more of a rally.

Among stocks U. S. Rubber preferred touched a new year's top supported at intervals were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, American Telephone, Westinghouse and International Harvester. Occasional losers included Chrysler, Western Union, Anaconda, American Can, Goodyear and DuPont.

A number of advisory services still were leaning a trifle to the bearish ranks notwithstanding the brightening of the International picture.

Other analysts while agreeing that technical and seasonal dips were entirely probable, argued that no "serious" retreat was likely in view of the great amount of idle investment money.

GRAIN PRICES EASE IN QUIET TRADING

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 17—Grain prices eased in quiet trading today, oats showing the most pronounced weakness and rye displaying resistance to the general downward tendency. Wheat and corn were off fractionally.

Major market influence, traders said, was a statement made last night by Secretary of Agriculture Wickard that 300,000,000 bushels of Canadian feed grains will be made available to the United States as soon as practicable.

Oats, which are encountering competition in New England from Canadian grains, seemed to be most effected by this statement, dropping about a cent. Some selling by northwestern interests was reported in the oats pit.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

OLINA put her hand to her throat with a tremulous gesture.

"But," she said, "if that be true, the writer of the letter must be someone who knew that the old gate post was used as a letter box."

"Yes, and that limits us to a half dozen people, most of whom have been here ever since that episode and are now in constant contact with you."

"That leaves only two persons who—" she began, then stopped dead.

"Let us stop talking about the picture for a little while," I said. "Tell me, am I mistaken in thinking you believe Georges sent you that fan letter and painting?" And the next instant I could not help thinking of that odious quotation about "the Colonel's lady and Judy O'Grady."

Olina Humble

For all panoply of royalty and arrogance of manner, once noted in this exiled Princess of Transvania, had fallen from her like discarded garments, and it was a shy, confused, trembling girl who started at my question, then countered it with another.

"You have—guessed, then?" she asked tremulously.

"It isn't very hard to guess, is it," I asked with a whimsical smile, "if we start with the premise that the picture represents The Larches? Who else in the world, besides our group here and the old man and woman who served you, knows that you ever lived at The Larches, except Georges?"

"You don't think it might be the old man?" she asked, and I saw that a yes would greatly disappoint her.

"No, I don't," I said truthfully. "Your old servant was faithful and fairly resourceful, but did not possess the imagination, nor flair for romantic intrigue, which appear in this message. I am convinced it was sent you by Georges—I cannot always remember to say King Georges."

"Poor Georges!" Olina sighed, but with a sudden lighting of her face and eyes, "He isn't a king now, any more than Mama is a queen or I a princess. Georges lost his throne, you know."

"And as I remember the light-hearted Georges," I said, "I imagine he doesn't consider that a vital loss. But how do you suppose he ever escaped from that maelstrom over there?"

"Maelstrom is right," Olina said with a shudder, "and Mama and I were sure he had been drawn into its swirl. But if anybody could escape, it would be Georges. Knowing how will have to wait until we see him, if we ever do."

Olina was so forlorn and discouraged that I almost told her what first was my conjecture, now fast becoming my conviction, but at that moment my father's imperative knock sounded on the camouflaged door.

Spencer's Warning

"I am sorry to interrupt you," he said when I answered it, "but I must go away for an hour or two, and wish first to speak to Olina, if I may."

"Of course," she said quickly, and he spoke with slow emphasis. "There are two things I wish to say to you," he began. "One concerns the need for caution in your movements from this minute until I relax my own precautions.

"I do not wish you to go anywhere outside the door of your suite without a guard. The writer of this letter cautions you not to go on the streets, but the corridors of this hotel are also dangerous. Adams, in the next room, is waiting now to escort you back to your father's apartment.

"The second thing is this. I wish you to delegate to me the authority to insert that personal, summoning your unknown friend."

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Treatment of Tuberculosis

THE MODERN treatment of tuberculosis has advanced along many lines that do not have strictly to do with the actual medical treatment. These are concessions to the fact that the tuberculosis patient is a human being, has a mind and needs something to occupy it during the process of cure. They are psychological and humanitarian in scope.

Rest is still the essential feature of tuberculosis treatment, whether there is also some surgical manipulation such as pneumothorax done or not. And rest in tuberculosis treatment really means rest. It means rest in bed for at least the first six months, every day, both day and night, and perhaps practical rest with limited activity for a year or more after that.

Now you can read just so much, even if you like to read. And you can knit or play solitaire just so long before your mind begins to get fuzzy. So the rest becomes quite a burden.

In fact, in the old days the prospective patient dreaded the rest more than he did any other feature of the treatment. And when he got started to resting, he didn't relish it any better than he did in the anticipation.

But every hospital for the care of the tuberculous invalid now has special workers whose sole duty it is to make the enforced rest profitable and free from boredom. I know of a watchmaker and repairer who was encouraged to keep on with his vocation, at least part time, even while he was in bed.

Occupational therapy of a light kind is instituted as soon as practicable and many people learn a trade in a tuberculosis sanitarium. Of course, the radio has been a god-send to such patients. It often requires considerable ingenuity to work out something the patient will be able to do and which interests him, but that is the job of the occupational therapist and psychologist.

There is no reason why children who are under treatment for tuberculosis should interrupt their school work. In the best institutions a light, airy school room is filled up and beds are wheeled in and serve instead of chairs, and special desks like bed trays are used. When the children "graduate" from such an institution, they are not behind other children of their age in education.

Tuberculosis work, you see, has assumed vast ramifications. It is far different from the old days when the patient was regarded as a kind of pariah.

To eradicate tuberculosis and to keep up the mental and spiritual development of the patients with tuberculosis while undergoing treatment is the duty of all of us. It costs money. Do your share by buying Christmas seals this year.

The Stars Say—

For Wednesday, Nov. 18

CONTINUED good fortune is found in this day's astrological chart, and affairs may advance upon high goals of achievement and cherished ideals and desires. This expansive, generous and ambitious program may reach the highest of fulfilments through the support of elders, superiors and community or public associations, with a stabilizing effect on the financial credit and growth. It is a time for pushing in this direction for honors, favors and preferment, consolidating the interests and possessions by daring to be original or to employ audacious innovations or radical changes.

Those whose birthday it is may plan for an important and expansive year, with all goals stimulated to high pressure, for an enduring and perhaps spectacular culmination of the most ambitious hopes and wishes. There should be growth in all directions, with financial increase, possessions enhanced and stabilized, largely by revolutionary changes, novelty and bold strokes of genius or originality. Those in prestige and power should be found cooperative, especially agencies, lawyers, strongers as well as elders.

A child born on this day should be bounteously endowed with those talents, resources and characteristics making for high place and power.
